

All Alberta Units Reach Full Strength.

With all 16 Alberta units of the Canadian Active Service Force at full mobilization strength, staff officers of Military district 13 headquarters are preparing to classify recruits according to their former trades and occupations.

Trade tests have been installed and the 450 men who are applying for technical pay, from 25 to 75 cents higher than the ordinary private's allowance began to take their examinations Tuesday.

Among these men are dispensers, surveyors, plumbers, cooks, welders and others.

Zoo-Buster Sad.

"Buster," the runaway seal, is sad.

It's true that he is receiving plenty to eat at the zoo on St. George's Island in Calgary and that he has a warm hut to sleep in these cool nights. But Buster's complaint is about the tiny pool in which he must swim while he awaits completion of his new home.

Red Cross Organizes On Wartime Basis

The Didsbury and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was put on a wartime footing at a largely attended meeting held in the Legion Hall last Wednesday night.

Mr. H. W. Chambers occupied the chair and told of the good work accomplished by the Red Cross in this district during peacetime and gave credit to Mr. W. A. Austin for being instrumental in keeping the Didsbury branch active. He stated that Didsbury had the only active branch of the Red Cross between Calgary and Edmonton during peacetime.

Mr. Austin gave a short talk in which he told of the necessary steps to be taken to put the organization on a war footing. He outlined the necessary officers to be elected, committees appointed and explained the different phases of the work they would be expected to undertake.

He said that it was essential that the work be got underway as soon as possible, as the Canadian Red Cross would be expected to co-operate with the Red Cross Societies of Great Britain, France and Poland, and that the need of assistance was becoming more evident every day.

Mr. Austin thanked the people of the district for their generous help to the Society during the past years and said that he was sure they could be counted on to render all the assistance they possibly could during the war period.

The following officers were elected and committees appointed:

President: H. W. Chambers

C. E. Reiber
H. W. Morgan
W. H. Davies

Troops Leave Sarcee.

Tuesday morning the men of the Highlanders started life anew in their new quarters in Mewata Camp.

The men seemed pleased with the fact that they now had cots to sleep on after three weeks' sleeping on the floor of the huts at Sarcee. They were also looking forward to eating their meals from now on in the heated mess huts provided for them at their new quarters.

Board of Trade Supper Meeting

The supper meeting of the Board of Trade held last Thursday night was a very successful get-together meeting and 58 men sat down to a splendid supper supplied by the Junior Ladies' Aid of the Knox Church.

After supper, Mr. N. S. Clarke, president of the Board of Trade, introduced a number of pioneer residents of the district who were in attendance. Among those introduced were business men who were among the first to enter business when the town was first started and also several farmers who were pioneers in the district.

The president spoke particularly to the younger members and suggested that it was up to them to carry on and put forward their best efforts for the benefit of both town and district.

The chairmen of the different committees were called on to report on the work and progress of their various departments.

After the business session had been concluded, a series of moving pictures were presented by Mr. F. Williams, of Calgary, which were greatly appreciated.

The chairman announced that the membership fee had been set at $1.00 and that he hoped every business man and farmer in the district would show his interest by joining the organization.

WEDDINGS

HUGET-KRANS

The vestry of Knox United Church at Calgary was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday evening when Natalea, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Krans of Vancouver, became the bride of Mr. Carlos Melvyn Huget, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Huget, of Didsbury. Rev. R. H. McKinnon officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin, with a net veil caught into a cap of orange blossoms. She carried pink roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Huget, wore a frock of rose net over rose taffeta, with elbow-length mitts of rose net. She carried a colonial bouquet of talisman roses.

Mr. Aylmer Liesemer was the groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Miss Dorothy Huget, where the rooms were prettily decorated with autumn flowers. Mrs. Huget presided over the tea table and assisting in serving were Miss Marjorie Shandera, Miss Claire Despins and Miss Loretta Waterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Huget will reside in Calgary.—Calgary Albertan

Joe Dick, of Didsbury, appeared before Police Magistrate F. Briegel on Thursday last week and was found guilty of assaulting So Ho Jo, proprietor of a Didsbury restaurant on September 3rd. He was fined $20.00 and costs or two month hard labor in Lethbridge jail and bound over to keep the peace for one year. Joseph paid.—Olds Gazette.

Farmer Jailed for Stealing Red Pigs

The sharp eyes of Corporal D. Cameron of the R.C.M.P., spotted ten stolen pigs the other day, more than two months after they had been stolen.

As a result Thomas Edwards, Carstairs farmer, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labor when he admitted theft of the pigs in court at Crossfield before Police Magistrate Alex W. Gordon on September 22.

The pigs, red in color, were stolen from R. E. Lantz, farmer, living near Didsbury.

Grain Grades May Be Higher

Quality is expected to match quantity when Alberta's 1939 wheat crop is finally marketed.

It may, according to present estimates, grade well above last year, with approximately 68 per cent in the three top grades.

No. 1 Hard, "ace" wheat of the West, is expected to total but one per cent of the province's production, but this is more than offset by indications that 39% will grade No. 1 Northern, 28% No. 2 Northern and 14% No. 3 Northern.

With six per cent assigned to the No. 4 Northern class, this would leave but 26 per cent for all other grades, such as 1 and 2 CW Garnet, etc.

A Worthy Cause

The stirring appeal which has been sounded during the past few months for financial support to ensure continued maintenance of Jack Miner's bird sanctuary in Eastern Canada should strike a responsive chord in the breast of every lover of wild life and of every true sportsman on the entire continent.

When it is remembered that Jack Miner, at great personal sacrifice to himself and family, has done pioneer work in bird banding for a long period of years resulting in valuable information which has made conservation of game birds on present day scale possible, it is not too much to suggest that his work is deserving of recognition in a practical way, at least to the extent that will enable the work to be carried on. It would not be going too far afield to state that every sportsman in the United States and Canada owes him a debt beyond calculation.

The banding of ducks and geese by Jack Miner, and in later years by the Biological Survey of Washington, has revealed that there are three migration routes which the birds follow in their annual flights to and from their breeding grounds. One route lies east of the Mississippi, another west of the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains and the third is along the Pacific Coast, west of the Rockies.

The ducks and geese banded by Jack Miner at Kingsville, Ontario, which is centrally located along the Great Lakes, are practically all reported shot east of the Mississippi with the exception of the odd bird which has strayed across to the western side of that big river.

It has been Jack Miner's sanctuary and his activities at Kingsville that have saved a breeding supply for hunters, and especially those who enjoy their sport in Southern Illinois and the junction of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and eastward through to Carrituck Sound, Lake Mattamuskeet and other winter quarters.

Benefitted Greatly

The band records compiled by Jack Miner over a long period of years prove that the sportsmen along the Atlantic Coast and in the Eastern United States benefit very little from the activities of the duck or goose population of Western Canada.

The great value of the Jack Miner's bird banding activities is that it has given the people of the United States and Canada indisputable records of the number and percentage of ducks and geese cared for by the famous Canadian bird sanctuary at Kingsville that are shot in the United States.

Jack Miner, as well as many other leading Canadian sportsmen, conservationists and public spirited citizens, feels that the sportsmen of the United States should, without hesitancy support him in a tangible way by raising sufficient funds to enable him to maintain his establishment and carry on his work.

At the present time hundreds of thousands of dollars are being spent in Western Canada by Ducks Unlimited, money which is raised in the United States to restore former breeding grounds and establish new ones in Western Canada to raise ducks for the American sportsmen to shoot. If it is possible to raise such large sum among the hunters of the United States for this new project, there should be a few thousand-dollars available to assist Jack Miner whose activities have spelled success for nearly half a century.

In the winter of 1938 alone Jack Miner had a floating population of between 25,000 and 50,000 Canada geese for three months in the spring and three months in the fall, that were all fed by him and given a safe haven from the hunter's gun.

Last winter a flock of Canada geese number between 5,000 and 10,000 never entered the United States, remaining at the Kingsville sanctuary all winter. The increase from this flock alone will give the sportsmen in the United States this fall an opportunity to shoot an additional 10,000 to 25,000 geese.

Miner's Fortune Spent

With these facts in mind an appeal to American sportsmen to maintain the Jack Miner sanctuary should not fall on deaf ears.

The result of close contact with Jack Miner and his work over a period of many years, contributors can be assured that any assistance which can be given will not only be gladly accepted but will be expended to the greatest possible advantage. Jack Miner himself has spent his entire personal fortune on this work and has contributed his own time and that of his family to this great cause.

In a recent announcement it was pointed out that cheques should be made payable personally to Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ontario, and it was stated that to those who wish to secure a statement of actual financial conditions before large amounts are contributed, a sworn statement of the bank handling the account at Kingsville will be mailed.

Austrian Baron Farming In Canada Would Fight With Britain

Canada welcomes the newcomers and particularly when they are like an Austrian baron, who fought for Germany in the Great War, but, arriving in Canada to take up farming, says "I will fight for the English people in this war, if it comes. I will fight for Great Britain because I know I will be fighting on the side which stands for the rights of people; I shall be on the right side." He looks as if he will be a desirable settler. FRUIT FILLED BREAKFAST RING

2 1/2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 1/2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
5 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
7 tablespoons milk
Melted butter

1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped walnut meats
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk; add all at once to flour mixture and stir until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll into oblong sheet, 1/4 inch thick; brush with melted butter and sprinkle with mixture of brown sugar, cinnamon, nuts, raisins, and orange rind. Roll as for jelly roll; bring edges together to form ring and place on ungreased baking sheet. With scissors, cut 1-inch slices, almost through ring, turning each slice cut-side up and pointing outer edges. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes, or until done. Remove to cake rack and while hot spread with glaze made by combining 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and two tablespoons milk (about). Serve warm or cold.

No Koala Bear Skins Are Being Exported From Australia

The Australian Press Union says publicity given in the United States to Australia's lovable native bear, the koala, caused a demand for coats made from their skins and this led to reports that koala were being illegally killed here and their skins exported.

The Chief Secretary (Mr. Bailey) caused inquiries to be made and these revealed that the skins being used were exported in 1927 when, during an open season in Queensland, 600,000 were obtained by trappers. Since then the koala has been rigidly protected.

Story About Herr Goebbels And Schoolboy Worth Repeating

Goebbels was paying a visit to a public school in order to see how his propaganda was affecting the youth of the country. He asked a small boy to quote from memory some patriotic greeting. The child replied: "Heil Hitler." "Quite right," said Herr Goebbels, "but there are other slogans. A second boy piped up: "Deutschland uber Alles."

"Fine, fine," said Goebbels, "but there are even more impressive ones." Whereupon the smallest boy in the class contributed: "Our people shall go on for ever." "Bravo," said Goebbels, "that's very good indeed! What's your name?" And the boy answered: "Isaac Levy." Nebelspalter, Rorschach.

(EXCLUSIVE PATENTED FORMULA)

Report Alberta Certified Wheat to Average 25.8 Bus.

Registered and certified wheat, backbone of Canada's high grade grain crop, is expected to average 25.8 bushels to the acre in Alberta this year, according to estimates made by inspectors of the Dominion seed branch. The oats crop is expected to go 56 bushels to the acre and barley 39.

Volume of the acreage inspected amounted to 27,700, second largest total in the history of the province and exceeded only by last year's record of 40,400.

Of the 27,700 acres, 12,900 were in wheat, with Red Bobs predominating and Marquis second. About 1,000 of rust-resistant Renown, Regent, Thatcher and Apex wheats were inspected.

Oat inspections amounted to 7,072 acres, 4,000 less than 1938, while barley was down and flax showed a "significant" increase; significant because in recent years flax mills in the province have been forced to import much of their supplies from outside countries.

Registered and certified alfalfa acreage was down and so was crested wheat grass.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director "Crop Testing Plan"

The Polish people, attacked without warning and in a brutal fashion by Hitler's Armed Forces in the West and by Stalin's Armies in the East, are crushed, but the gallant stand they made will go ringing down through the annals of history.

Hitler assures us that he is now satisfied and that we can have peace, but he told us this in 1935 and then took the Rhineland; repeated it in 1936, when he took Austria; assured us again in 1938 and seized Sudetenland; solemnly swore it still again in 1938 and took Czechoslovakia; then he seized Menel and now Poland; so what are his solemn assurances worth? All we can think of is, who is next for the slaughter? No doubt Holland with her oil, France with her iron, Great Britain with her coal, tin and rubber, Canada with her wheat, nickel and pulp wood, and then the United States with her cotton, copper and oil, for all these products, Hitler tells us, he badly needs.

Our only chance for survival, obviously, is for all these nations who desire to maintain the lands they live in and who treasure the ideals of international decency, of fairness, and of freedom, to band together and to defend themselves vigorously before they are caught, one at a time, and alone and defenceless, in Hitler's brutal trap.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Dominion estimate the Western wheat crop at 422 million bushels -- Continued drought in large U.S.A. wheat area -- Belgium abolishes import tax on wheat and prohibits export of all cereals -- Russian fall plowing and seeding delayed owing to protracted dry spell -- Constant rise in sugar consumption in Germany.

Following factors have tended to lower price: World wheat supplies outside of Russia and China estimated at 5,370 million against 3,500 million bushels in 1914-15 season -- Canadian wheat visible stocks increased by 3 3/4 million bushels -- Rumania going to have its largest corn crop since 1929.

The GIANT of ALBERTA

THE ancients thought the sky was held up on the shoulders of the giant Atlas.

But Alberta is actually carried, from an economic standpoint, on the shoulders of the giant Agriculture.

Last year, less than 100,000 Alberta farmers produced $167 million of new wealth. Of that total $118 million came from field crops, mostly wheat.

Where would Alberta's 775,000 people get a living if it were not for agriculture? Yet this great industry must struggle along under the burden of marketing methods which, more often than not, provide inadequate prices. Sophistry and theorizing avail little. Action is needed. The Wheat Pools and the farm organizations got the Wheat Board. This was a great forward step in marketing wheat, to which all now subscribe.

But it is just a step. The Board must be perpetuated. The agricultural industry must have greater all-round price protection. There must be no return to the laissez-faire methods.

An aroused agriculture can make progress by uniting its strength. The best way to do this is to build up farm organizations and co-operatives.

Joke On The Firemen

Detroit Squad Found Fire Not So Easy To Start

The Highland Park fire department at Detroit agrees to a man that it is much easier to put out a fire than to start one—and not nearly so embarrassing.

Recently the fire department turned out almost en masse to demonstrate how quickly it could extinguish 1,000 gallons of blazing oil. Firemen were eager to show a large crowd that their work was even more efficient than that of the police, who had just finished capturing a "bandit" (one of their own members) in short order.

A firebrand was tossed into the pit of oil. A flame flickered momentarily out, died out as the firemen, poised with hoses, prepared for action. Another firebrand was tossed on the oil, and still another, but the oil remained unignited. Then the chief poured gasoline on the oil, but still no fire.

Not to be outdone entirely, the firemen decided to show off their pumping equipment. The engine was rolled into place and the hose turned on. The result was a shower for the cheering spectators.

Future Of Canada

Vision Of Population We May Have In a Hundred Years From Now

In 1830, the population of the United States was 12,000,000. In 1930 this figure had risen to 125,000,000. An American Laurier who, a century ago, would have predicted such a phenomenal increase, would have caused all the wisecracks of that time to burst into shrieks of laughter.

As for us Canadians, we now number 12,000,000. How many of us will there be in the year 2040? Would 60,000,000 be an exaggerated number? Such an increase in human capital would not be one-half of that experienced by the United States. I hear voices saying that this is impossible. But I am convinced that this number will be greatly exceeded and that Canada will become one of the great powers of the world. Le Jour (Montreal).

Assumes Responsibility

Roderick Stuart Kennedy, B.S.A.

The announcement that Roderick Stuart Kennedy, B.S.A., has been appointed Editor-in-Chief of the Family Herald and Weekly Star gains importance from the internal and external stresses to which Canada is subject, and which are often felt most acutely in the farming and rural sections. The Editor of the only completely national farm magazine in the Dominion has a unique responsibility as a reconciler of sectional interests, an interpreter of diverse aspirations, and an influence towards Canadian unity. Mr. Kennedy who was born in Montreal, schooled in England, worked on farms in Eastern and Western Canada and who has travelled widely throughout the rural parts of Canada, should have that broad vision of Canada as a nation, and as a member of the British Commonwealth which these difficult times demand.

Following his graduation in Agriculture from Macdonald College, (McGill) in 1912, Mr. Kennedy was for a short time Assistant Superintendent of the Lacombe Experimental Farm, following which he joined his father in farming a section near the same town. In 1914 he joined the C.E.F., and after his discharge on account of wounds was in charge of Vocational Training of Disabled Soldiers in the Ottawa District until he joined the Family Herald and Weekly Star as Promotion Manager in 1922.

Journalism is in his blood, his father having been editor of the London Times Edition, and before that City Editor of the old Montreal Witness and War Correspondent during the Riel Rebellion. His own articles, stories and book reviews have appeared in many Canadian and United States publications in recent years, and he has, appropriately enough, been for a long time an active member of both the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists and the Canadian Authors' Association.

Wrote Beautiful Story

Blind Girl Won First Prize In Nation-Wide Contest

Eighteen-year-old Marion J. Anderson lives in a world of perpetual darkness.

Yet the blind Seattle girl's rich mind conceived a story of a butterfly and so glowingly put it down on paper it won first place in a nationwide contest.

The story, a fairy-tale entitled "How the Butterfly Got Its Name," was selected as best in a short story competition conducted by the Braile Searchlight Magazine, published in New York.

It has been estimated by geologists that during the Ice Age more than 1,000 feet of glacier ice covered what is now the town of Jasper, in Jasper National Park, Alberta.

Too Much Idle Money

Iowa Bank Closed Doors Although It Is Solvent

Because no one wants to borrow money, the savings bank at Booneville, Iowa, has closed its doors.

The bank has $267,000 in deposits, is solvent, but it can't make any money paying out 2½ per cent. interest to depositors and letting the cash lie idle in its vaults.

In a letter to the depositors announcing the closing, the bank, in business for 33 years, said "the principal reason for quitting is that we do not know what to do with your money."

Peer Hands Over Property For Agricultural Training Centre

News of the World says property in Inverness-shire, including Inverloch Castle, has been presented by Lord Abinger to the British Government as an agricultural training centre.

The gift, it was announced in the House of Commons, consists of the castle and grounds, the home farm, Auchendaul farm, and land totalling about 2,900 acres.

The castle is all granite, and was built by the third Lord Abinger. It has 35 bedrooms.

Finest tribute to the horse, is paid by the Ottawa Journal: "There is something extraordinarily human about a horse; something wistful, whimsical, loyal; something altogether lovable. INTERESTING THE PUBLIC
IN HEALTH

The world's fair, the national exhibition, the county fair—all are media through which public education is carried on. In Canada, one of the best means adopted by the Health League of Canada to interest the public in health is to present an annual display at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

This year, through the generous co-operation of the Exhibition authorities, a more attractive display than ever before has been made possible for Canada's health education agency.

The exhibit has been designed to impress upon visitors various phases of health work. One large section is devoted to the need for the pasteurization of milk. Another section is devoted to the various activities of the Health League, attention being drawn in a spectacular manner to such topics as diphtheria and its prevention by toxoid, venereal diseases and their control, artificial respiration and periodic health examinations to reduce the toll of cancer, heart disease and other causes of death.

An important point stressed by the Health League exhibit is the enormous cost of illness in Canada, half of which is preventable.

THE RIVER OF SKULLS

Deep in the night a 19-foot Peterboro canoe slipped from the shadow-packed shore below the darkened buildings of the Hudson's Bay post, rode the ebb tide down to the river mouth, and turned north up the coast.

As the northwest wind drove the ice-pack toward the bald buttresses of the Cape of the Four Winds and the canoe raced the broken floe-ice past its granite feet, the pursuing York boat appeared in the distance.

It was a three days' race. But the frail canoe, driven by its desperate crew, reached Whale River, while, high and dry on a mud flat, the York boat waited for the next tide to float it free.

Neil Campbell, the trader, was puzzled and worried by Alan's strange request which, Alan assured him could not be explained until later. Yet he staunchly agreed to corroborate Alan's story.

On up the coast, past the Little Whale and Richmond Gulf, went the canoe on its quest for dogs. At the Nastapokas, where the ice pack had brought in the walrus, seal and polar bear from the north, Alan met the first of the Kogalik Eskimos. There he traded his canoe load of goods and groceries for three yearling Ungava puppies, bred from a pair of superb huskies which had crossed from Hope's Advance on Ungava Bay with their owners. He had kept his promise to John McCord. He now had a team of Ungavas for the coming winter.

With his two slate-gray and white puppies, Powder and Shot, and their seal-brown and white brother, called Rogue, Alan started back down the treacherous coast for Fort George.

The spring trade was in full swing when the Peterboro turned into the river mouth at Fort George and rode the flood tide up to the Hudson's Bay settlement.

Soon Alan and Noel stood on the high shore, holding their nervous dogs by rawhide leashes to prevent a general fight with the post huskies. Noel suddenly pointed upstream to the settlement of the Northern Trading Company, beyond the Revillon Freres, where a number of York boats and a small schooner lay at anchor far in the distance.

"What does that on de water, up dere? Dat's no boat," he said, his hand shading his squinting eyes.

"You're right!" cried Alan. "That's a seaplane—one of the Canadian Airways, I'll bet! The Northern Trading Company, you know, found a lot of iron and copper on the Nastapokas. Gabriel says what they're after is gold, though."

At the Hudson's Bay Company, when Alan had looked rough and his priceless puppies in the small dog stockade behind his house, he was greeted by the sober faces of Duncan McNab and Andrew Christie, the factor.

"Well, young man!" snapped Christie, "you seem to have made a fine mess of things!"

Alan stiffened as he met Christie's disgusted look alert to avoid being caught off his guard by what was coming.

"Why, I was thinking," parried Alan, keeping his temper, "that Noel and I had made a pretty good trip up the coast."

"Pretty good trip?" stormed the trader. "I'd say a pretty bad trip for you, Alan Cameron. Why, your father'd turn over in his grave if he knew what you'd been up to!"

Blood darkened Alan's wind-tanned face but he forced a smile as he replied: "When you see the three pups I got at the Nastapokas, you'll agree—"

"Your starting north the night after I told you the police had hired a York boat proves you wanted to see Neil before the police reached him."

Alan's face went stone hard. "Well, he told them where I got that money, didn't he?"

"Yes, but the police don't believe him!"

"Do you?" demanded Cameron, a glitter in his gray eyes.

"I've got to believe Neil Campbell, I suppose, but he didn't help you at all with McQueen. The Sergeant's sure, now, you met this McCord and he's going back with you to the headwaters."

"You're a fool, Alan, to put yourself under suspicion of protecting a murderer!" added Duncan McNab. "The police can make it hot for you take you down to the railroad and put you on trial."

Alan's good nature had returned. He smiled indulgently, displaying his strong white teeth. "It's 400 miles to the headwaters. Noel and I'll be glad to show the police the way, if that's all they want. Won't we, Noel?" As for our meeting anybody up there last winter, that's nonsense!"

"Well, I wouldn't be in your shoes for a good deal!" snapped Christie. "By the by," he continued, after a period of silence, "a Canadian Airways plane came in a few days ago, bringing the mail from Moose, and there's a passenger who is waiting to see you." He winked at Duncan McNab, whose red face was widening in a grin.

"A passenger—to see me?" Alan stared at the speaker.

"Aye, and she's kicked up more rumpus in old Fort George than I've seen since the measles killed half our people."

"She?" what could a woman from the "outside" want with Alan Cameron? he wondered.

"Yes, a woman. She's thick as peas with the police. Has something to do with their trip here, I take it. But she won't talk to the other women about it. She's holding the plane until she sees you."

On his way to Gabriel Dessane's house, Alan stopped to see his friend Pierre and learn if the Dessanes were still at supper. Opening the door of the trader-room, to his surprise he saw Arsene Rivard in close conversation with a woman whose Norfolk jacket, short skirt and high laced boots marked her as a stranger at Fort George. As he entered he caught her remark:

"He must have met—"

"Hello, Rivard!" said Alan, enjoying the embarrassment of the two. "Pierre's over at his house, I suppose?"

"Why, hello, Cameron!" The tone of the clerk was very cordial as he left the woman, who leaned gracefully against the trade-counter, calmly inspecting the handsome young voyager, from his moose-skins to the disposed twinkling gray eyes.

"Mrs. Hanbury I would make you acquainted with Alan Cameron," said the clerk turning to the woman.

So this is the woman who has upset Fort George, he thought. She seemed hardly more than 25, with a tall, graceful figure set off by the swiftest suit. Her face, framed by wavy bronze hair, was the face of a girl, except for the hazel eyes, long lashed and large. The eyes were unmistakably those of a woman who had seen much.

"May I speak to Mr. Cameron alone?" she asked of Rivard.

"Certainly, Madame," replied the clerk with an insinuating smile as he left the trader-room.

Mrs. Hanbury lost no time in coming to the point.

"Mr. Cameron, are you out of your mind?"

Alan laughed. Folding his muscular arms across his chest he calmly met the handsome eyes that searched his.

"I may be. I never had much mind," he answered, dryly.

"You're playing a dangerous game," she became suddenly dramatic, "when you start to work against the Provincial Police."

He had once read of a woman detective in a book in the post library.

Could this woman be a government detective?

"How have I worked against the police," he asked, disarmingly, "by telling the truth?"

She burst into a paroxysm of laughter that did not fail to display the whiteness and regularity of her teeth. Drying her eyes with a handkerchief that filled the air with a subtle perfume, she said, standing very close to the uncomfortable Alan: "Why, you poor boy, do you suppose they don't know you're lying?"

"Excuse me, Mrs. Hanbury, I don't know who you are," he said, the blood darkening his bronzed face. "What right have you to ask me questions?"

She opened her large eyes with their long-lashed lids in amazement. "They didn't tell you—at the Hudson's Bay?"

"Not a word—except that you were here and wanted to see me."

"That's strange! I'm connected with the government, you know—special agent. I flew to Moose on another matter and wanted to have a look at the East Coast. Knowing Sergeant McQueen and Corporal Slade, of course I was interested in their search for this McCord whom you met in the interior last winter."

"I did not meet McCord last winter!"

The cold glitter in the gray eyes had a decided effect on Mrs. Hanbury's manner. She suddenly dropped her air of easy confidence.

"When they get John McCord," she went on, dramatically, ignoring his flat denial, "do you realize that you will be tried for aiding an escaped murderer? Now, I promise you that if you'll tell me where you met this man and the girl—what you know about them, I'll square this whole thing with the police." Again she approached too closely for Alan's comfort as her black-lashed hazel eyes narrowed. "It's going to go hard for you if you don't, for McQueen will take you down to the Deputy Commissioner at the railroad for questioning."

The conversation was interrupted by the return of Gabriel Dessane from his supper. Harassed by the certainty of being compelled to accompany the police to the headwaters, by doubt and misgivings which the mysterious Mrs. Hanbury had aroused, Alan went over to the factor's house. Received coldly by Madame Dessane, he found Berthe waiting.

"You have found her very agreeable, to talk so long in the trader-room," she asked, giving him a lifeless hand.

"Arsene told you then?" So you think that woman—"

"I don't know what to think. Goodnight, Alan!" And she left the room.

A Word for the Truck Driver.

The truck driver, Mr. and Mrs. Private Driver, doesn't think much of your ability to pilot an automobile safely!

For years you've called this same truck driver a road hog or worse, and screamed that there ought to be a law to keep trucks off the road.

But times have changed. And the Alberta Safety League has announced results of studies that show the commercial vehicle driver has improved his safety record in recent years, while that of the private car driver has become worse.

Since 1927 the number of trucks involved in fatal accidents has dropped 41% during the same period.

But the number of passenger cars involved in fatal accidents has INCREASED 21%!

Is it any wonder, then, that the truck and bus driver feel they are entitled to toss back a few opinions of their own at the private driver?

"There are a number of reasons why the average commercial vehicle driver is a safe driver," says James C. Hayden, commercial fleet engineer for the National Safety Council. Foremost among the reasons listed by Mr. Hayden are:

1. The commercial driver makes his living behind the wheel. He is at it an average of eight hours a day and the very volume of his experience pounds home the need for safety in his driving habits.

2. The commercial driver has safety drilled into him by his employer day after day. He is made continually aware that accidents hurt company goodwill, boost his employer's public liability insurance rates and place his own job in jeopardy.

Car Licenses To Cost Less Oct. 1

First reduction of passenger or pleasure car licenses this year will take effect on October 1, according to information which officials of the Alberta Motor Association have received from the provincial secretary's department.

To those taking out motor licenses on or after October 1, there will be a 40 per cent reduction on the annual license fee. The license will expire next March 31. Licenses for motor trucks were reduced by 40 per cent on September 1 and hold good until the end of next March.

Next January 1, there will be a 75 per cent reduction in passenger car and motor truck licenses, so that cars may be operated in the first three months of 1940 at one quarter of the annual license fee.

Government officials also have announced that up to the end of September, there will be a 30 per cent rebate on the passenger car license fee if plates are turned in by that time, or 20 per cent on plates returned to the department by January 10 next. A rebate of 20 per cent on truck licenses is allowed up to January 10.

Canada Year Book, 1939

Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has authorized publication of the 1939 edition of the Canada Year Book. It is authorized by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The year book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up to date account of the natural resources of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education, etc.—in brief a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1939 Canada Year Book extends to over 1,200 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress which the country has made since the first census of the Dominion was taken in 1871, sixty-eight years ago.

In the present edition a complete list of special articles and of significant historical or descriptive text that has not been subject to wide change and is therefore not repeated, is given following the Table of Contents. This list links the 1939 year book with its predecessors and indicates the extent to which the "Year Book" must now be regarded as a series of publications rather than as a single volume.

There are over thirty maps and charts contained in the volume and a photogelatine insert illustrating the special article on Noxious Forest insects. Three lithographed maps are included.

In commemoration of the Royal visit to Canada, color plates of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, together with official pictures of incidents connected with the unveiling of the National Memorial and of the Royal Assent to Legislation of the 1939 Session of Parliament, appear as frontispiece. A short account of the Royal Tour across Canada, together with a condensed itinerary, is also given.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession a limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain copies at the nominal cost of 50c each.

Applications for the purchase of copies should be made at once—the supply is strictly limited.
